The Servant Suffers

As we travel through Lent, we reflect on Jesus Christ's suffering and death for our salvation. Yet, many of us are left wondering: Why? Was this the only way? Did Jesus have to suffer? Studying the prophet Isaiah gives us insight into how and why the servant of the Lord endured suffering and how that suffering fits into the big picture of salvation.

AWARENESS Before listening reflect on what you already know or understand about topics we'll cover in the episode.

- Why do we sometimes think we won't experience suffering if God is on our side, especially if God has chosen us and has given us his strength and power?
- Retell the story of salvation in Christ either to yourself or someone else. Pay particular attention to what you say. What aspects of the story get you excited? Are there parts of the story that make you uncomfortable or that you find difficult to talk about? What parts did you spend a lot of time on? Is there anything you left out?

READ Isaiah 50, Isaiah 52

REFLECTION After listening, consider the following questions:

- When you think about how Jesus was treated, what perspective might that give to the sad, depraved actions of humanity you observe in our world today? What hope does the outcome of Jesus' story give you for the mission of God's chosen servant in the world today?
- Why does it matter that Jesus' suffering was lifelong and took many forms (spiritual, emotional, temptation), and was not just the physical suffering in the last 48 hours before his death? What meaning does this have for us as we try to live faithful lives here on earth?
- In segment 2, Dave Bast wonders about his own life and in what role in the story of Jesus' crucifixion his treatment of other people, also made in God's image, would place him. Examine your own life, and how you have treated your fellow image-bearers of God, whether they are like you or different from you. What role do you believe your actions would cast you in? Why?
- How do you keep from getting stuck in the suffering parts of the salvation story, so that you can rejoice and declare the good news of salvation? How about in your own story?

CONCLUSION

Read the following excerpt from Heidelberg Catechism, and reflect on the concise explanation of Christ's suffering found in it. Then allow it to prepare your heart and mind for the upcoming observances of the events of Christ's life which we remember during Holy Week.

Q. What do you understand by the word "suffered"?

A. That during his whole life on earth, but especially at the end, Christ sustained in body and soul the wrath of God against the sin of the whole human race.1 This he did in order that, by his suffering as the only atoning sacrifice,2 he might deliver us, body and soul, from eternal condemnation,3 and gain for us God's grace, righteousness, and eternal life.4
